

Ordering Breakfast

CHAPTER 9

Supplemental Dialogue for the Beginner Workbook

by Peter Mangiaracina

Bob is at a diner in New York City. It's 7:00 in the morning and he wants to have a relaxing breakfast. The waitress comes to his table.

SARAH

Good morning! What would you like to have today?

BOB

I'd like some eggs, please.

SARAH

Sure! How would you like your eggs? We can make them fried, scrambled, or we can prepare a nice ham and cheese 3-egg omelette.

BOB

Hmm, I think I'll have them sunny-side down. Can you make sure they're not too runny?

SARAH

Of course, Now, what would you like on the side? We have home fries or French fries.

BOB

I'll go with home fries, please. They sound delicious.

SARAH

Great choice! Anything else I can get for you?

BOB

Actually, I'd like a cup of regular coffee with a few packets of artificial sweetener. And a glass of grapefruit juice, please.

SARAH

I'm sorry, but we're out of grapefruit juice. Would you like orange juice instead?

BOB

Orange juice sounds good. I'll have that, please. Oh! and please bring me two slices of toast with butter.

SARAH

(writing on her pad)

Got it. Orange juice and buttered toast. Is there anything else I can get you?

BOB

Yes, could you please make sure my eggs are cooked without salt? I'm on a low-sodium diet.

SARAH

Absolutely! I'll inform the chef about your request.

BOB

Thank you so much!

SARAH

You're welcome. I'll be right back with your coffee. Your food will be ready shortly.
